November Meeting: We were treated to a demonstration by Teresa Rogers entitled "collographs" at our November meeting. Apparently the name comes from the Greek meaning "glued art". Teresa showed how to produce prints using a variety of items including wallpaper, lace, oats etc. Various types of texture gels can also be used to create texture, as well as cutting with a scalpel. After gluing the objects on to board or thick watercolour paper it is then varnished and polished. A variety of pictures can be created using this method such as fish, flowers, landscapes. Using oil based etching inks and roller or press, this produces beautiful prints. Being colourfast inks, this process can be used on fabric creating individual cushion covers, shopping bags etc. Teresa also kindly donated a collograph which was raffled. We all enjoyed learning about this versatile art process.
